Australian Minister Implies Attack To German Vessel In Report

Europe's war spread to the Pacific again today when a raider disguised as a Japanese vessel heavily shelled the island of Naupu in the south Pacific.

Prime Minister Menzies of Australia, announcing the attack on Nauru, implied that Germany was responsible. He revealed that considerable damage was done when the ship, flying the Rising Sun flag of Nippon, opened fire.

Nauru is rich in phosphates, but is not of particularly great strategic importance. Formerly German, the island, 600 miles northeast of the Solomon Islands, now is under a British empire mandate.

On the other side of the world, the unofficial Christmas "truce" between Germany and Britain ended. British bombers carried out new attacks on Nazi-held territory, and German long-range guns pounded the Dover area of Britain.

New Greek advances northwest of Pogradec, on the north Albanian front, and in the direction of Valona on the center, were reported by Athens. Air and artillery duels thundered around Bardia as the British closed in on the northeastern Libyan port.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Statistics compiled by the American Automobile Association reveal that the Christmas to New Year holiday results in a tremendous increase of automobile accidents, which average 45 per cent more than the average for the rest of the year. This would lead to the conclusion that motorists should be just a little more careful at this time of the year and avoid endangering their lives and those of others by exercising due precaution.

A little nearby community known as Fayette, marks this Christmas season with red letters, inasmuch as a fortnight ago, the younger set of the community delighted their elders by gathering at respective homes and singing Christmas carols. Included in the group were the Closes and Sipe children, and their songs were beautifully sung.

SERGEANT EAKIN GETS PROMOTION

Lieutenant Raymond Atkinson, of Battery F, 190th Field Artillery, states that Sergeant Edward G. Eakin has been promoted to be second lieutenant, to fill the vacancy which occurred, when Cavalry Troop K was converted into Field Artillery Battery F.

Six Browning automatic rifles, and sixty-six pistols have been received at the Armory, from the Arsenal at Harrisburg, for the use of the men of Battery F.

Reveal Hitler Took Look Across Channel

(International News Service) BERLIN, Dec. 27.—While the German air force refrained from carrying out raids on Britain during the Christmas holidays, R. A. F. planes yesterday conducted both daylight and night raids against German-occupied France, an official Berlin announcement charged to day.

Several civilians were injured, the announcement said, and objectives of a non-military nature were slightly damaged. One British bomber was said to have been shot down by anti-aircraft fire.

On Thursday night, the announcement charged, R. A. F. planes attacked Bordeaux but failed to hit military objectives, although several French civilians were killed and injured.

So badly damaged that they probably were "hardly able to reach their home bases," the announcement said.

One British Handley-Page bomber was shot down in flames, according to the announcement, which said one member of the crew was killed while three others parachuted to safety.

Meanwhile, it was revealed that Chancellor Hitler on Christmas day took a long look at England when he stood on the chalk cliffs above Boulogne—where Napoleon once gazed across the water at Britain's shores.

Hitler peered across the channel through binoculars as the climax of a yuletide inspection tour up and down the coast of occupied France.

The Fuehrer spent Christmas eve aboard a German patrol boat in the channel waters.

On Thursday night, the announce-

tacked Bordeaux but failed to hit military objectives, although several French civilians were killed and injured.

Huge Guns Are Hurling Shells Into Bardia—Some Have 20 Mile Range

By W. P. SAPHIRE International News Service Staff Correspondent

CAIRO, Dec. 27.—British tanks columns and bombing squadrons hammered and harassed 20,000 Italian troops trapped at Bardia today preparatory to a crushing frontal assault aimed at capturing the Fascist held port and stronghold.

The tank attacks and bombing forays were reported knocking out one strong point after another in the Italian defensive system at Bardia, paving the way for a major assault.

British Increase Force

Large numbers of British reinforcements have been moved into position to strike what authorities in Cairo consider will be a final and decisive blow against Bardia.

British authorities said the 20,000 Italians encircled there face either annihilation or forced surrender.

Fascist war planes were fighting back in a furious but apparently futile effort to win domination of the air in the Bardia region. They bombed British mechanized concentrations and swept the British lines fac-

Pope's Proposals Are Turned Down

BERLIN, Dec. 27.—The five points advanced by Pope Pius XII in his Christmastide radio address as prerequisites for establishment of a new order in Europe drew this sharp comment from authoritative German quarters today:

"This is a political and not a Christian war. Therefore, we see no platform in the Pope's speech as the basis of discussion."

Center of the disturbance appeared to be near Bunnell. Efforts to reach the area by telephone were unsuccessful.

BUDAPEST, Dec. 27.—Some sudden New Year's move by the German army in the Balkans appeared in prospect today with the movement of thousands of Reich troops across Hungary into Rumania, where they apparently were spreading out fanwise in several directions.

At the same time here Soviet mechanized reinforcements were reported deploying along the left bank of the Pruth river—evidently in the expectation that whatever action Germany plans to take might affect the strategic position of the Soviets as well as Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, Greece and Turkey.

Modern blitzkrieg tactics appear to have stripped war of its vestige of romance and glory. Pictured here are Italian advance work battalions improving a road along the Libyan-Egyptian frontier. This work was to speed new advances, according to Rome, but reports indicate it probably was used to speed the Italian retreat, instead.

Editor's Note: German official quarters in Berlin declared they had no information regarding reports that German troops are moving into Rumania and Italy. These sources stated that, in any event, they were unable to comment on military matters.

At the same time, Budapest reports of the troop movements were given a peculiar twist by a dispatch from Geneva asserting that all rail and air traffic in Rumania had been interrupted during the last few days by violent snowstorms.

Meanwhile, the Soviet legation in Bucharest issued an official denial of rumors that M. Lavrentieff, Soviet minister, plans to leave Rumania.

GREEK ARTILLERY HAMMERS ITALIANS

Advance Along Coast Toward Valona Also Being Continued

ATHENS, Dec. 27.—Pushing forward through deep snow and violent blizzards, Greek troops hammered Italian positions northwest of Pogradec on the northern Albanian war front today as last-minute military dispatches to Athens told of "important operations" in progress.

Despite sub-zero temperatures and great snow drifts, the Greeks launched several violent attacks.

In one markedly successful assault the Greeks improved their positions military authorities said. Then they repelled four heavy Italian counter-attacks with heavy losses to the various musical compositions.

The charges will be filed in Milwaukee shortly after the first of the year. A five year contract between the networks and ASCAP expires December 31.

ECONOMIC MOVES ALSO RUMORED

(International News Service)

TOKYO, Dec. 27.—Under banner headlines the Tokyo newspaper Nichi Nichi today published rumors that the United States is ordering its citizens to leave the Far East by Jan. 31.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The state department in Washington already has advised Americans to leave the Far East unless their presence there is essential.

At the same time, said Nichi Nichi, the American government will take "economic action" by ordering United States ships to cease calling at Japanese ports.

Measure Of Intimidation

According to the newspaper this action is viewed in Japan as a "measure of intimidation" against Japan.

Nichi Nichi said that between now and the end of January an increased number of American vessels will call at Yokohama to pick up American evacuees.

The Japan Times, English-language newspaper at Tokyo, in an editorial recommended a boycott on all United States products throughout territory controlled by Nippon. The paper warned there may be a complete closing down of Far Eastern markets to American imports in preparation for American restrictions on Japanese imports.

suited Non-interventionists Clark (D) Mo. and Adams (D) Colo. endorsed the drive for peace in principle, but warned that negotiations at this time might be construed as further meddling in European affairs.

Mind Our Own Business

"I'm in favor of minding our own business," Clark added. "We've thrown away any effective opportunity we'd had to be a mediator because of the partiality we've shown between the belligerents. I don't believe that anybody would look upon this administration as an impartial mediator."

"I think it's a commendable suggestion," Adams said, "but I don't think we ought to try to settle the affairs of Europe. If England and Germany are ready for peace, however, I think it would be wise to find out the terms."

Sen. Johnson (D) Colo. another member of the bloc, endorsed the proposal.

"If Great Britain says she can't carry on the war without us, it becomes our responsibility to try and end the war," he said. "If they can stop over Christmas they ought to be able to stop for all time."

Acting Minority Leader Austin, Vt., a staunch supporter of the administration's foreign policy, said President Roosevelt's word "would carry great weight," but questioned whether "this is an opportune time" to attempt peace negotiations.

"But, nevertheless, nothing would be lost and something might be gained by such a move," Austin said.

Sen. Gillette (D) Ia. said that "in matters of such moment and importance the executive department of the government should be left free to take such action as they may see fit to take without embarrassment."

deux and during the daylight hours of yesterday, several air-dromes in enemy-occupied territories."

The raids yesterday and last night, which brought the unofficial Christmas "truce" to an abrupt end, were followed this morning by a furious outbreak of Anglo-German warfare.

Late this morning burst of anti-aircraft fire drove away a German raider that appeared over a southeastern English town. No bombs were dropped.

Big Berthas" Open Up

No German bombers appeared over Britain during the night, but this morning heavy gunfire from the Nazi "Big Berthas" mounted along the German-occupied French coast shook England's southeast coastline.

EDITOR'S NOTE: An official Berlin announcement stated that German long range guns this morning "successfully" bombarded enemy ships in the English channel and Dover harbor.

For two and a half hours during the early morning darkness the German guns bombarded the English shoreline with shells that screamed across the fog-blanketed Dover straits.

The "Big Berthas" went into action at 4:30 a.m. when a salvo of three shells crashed into the Dover area. Thereafter other salvos rocked the district at regular intervals, but no casualties or damage were reported.

Christmas Lull Over

Even earlier gun flashes from across the channel indicated that the Christmas lull in aerial activity had been broken.

Activity of German anti-aircraft batteries along the French coast was regarded as an unmistakable sign that R.A.F. bombers were pounding the "invasion ports" along the French coast.

In addition, it was believed likely that other British machines had penetrated deeper into enemy-held territory to drop their deadly cargoes of bombs.

For the third successive night, German bombers kept away from Britain. The air ministry in London issued a terse communiqué which stated merely:

No Bombing Of Britain

"There was no enemy activity in Britain last night."

The latest R.A.F. attacks as well as the doubled British forces guarding the channel coast were this country's reply to indications that the Reich might launch a sudden invasion attempt.

But the absence of German raiders gave London and most of Britain the longest bomb-free spell since the Nazi aerial blitz was launched last September 7.

In London the sirens had not wailed since Monday night and German bombers had not been over the capital since 1 a.m. Tuesday, thus making a record of three "all clear" days and nights.

GREEK TROOPS DRIVE FORWARD THROUGH SNOW

Hellenic shock troops on the Italian left wing along the northern front resulted in "extermination of enemy elements" defending a strategic hill, reports from the front stated.

After occupying the hill, authorities said, the Greeks found the bodies of 300 Italians and captured 124 prisoners and considerable material.

According to latest advices from this sector the Greek advance is continuing from a point northwest of Moscopoli along a line to another pivot northwest of Pogradec.

On the central front Greek forces also registered a slight new advance, despite fierce Italian resistance.

Moving Forward

Northwest of Kliksura the Greeks also were actively moving forward with satisfaction, although Italian rear guard forces were reported putting up a violent battle as they slowly fell back.

All day yesterday, according to reports from the front, Greek artillery cascaded hammering the Danube lines and caused heavy losses among the Fascist ranks.

In addition, it was reported, Greek artillery units after a successful maneuver brought the Kliksura-Berat road under fire, leaving the Italians fighting along a line between Kliksura and Tepeleini only one road for communications with their rear—the Tepeleini-Berat highway.

Along the coast the advance toward Valona continued with the Italians resisting in an effort to consolidate their mountain positions in front of Valona for a defense of the port. But the rapid advance of the Greek vanguard gave the Fascists no chance to construct their fortifications.

LOOK FOR SUDDEN MOVE BY GERMANS IN BALKAN AREAS

Romania some rapidly was being expanded rapidly to numbers estimated variously between 200,000 and 500,000.

Other Balkan reports claimed as many as 300,000 red army troops, supported by tanks, heavy guns and other mechanized equipment, were stationed along the Pruth river which forms the Soviet-Romanian boundary line.

The German troops entering Romania brought with them all mechanical equipment needed for a major field action. Apparently they were taking over complete military control of Romania, particularly districts adjoining the Bulgarian and Yugoslav frontiers.

Hungarian railways were kept busy transporting German soldiers and mechanized equipment across that country into Romania.

GERMAN PRESS WARNS AGAINST SHIPPING PLAN

the theme that Britain tirelessly is trying to lure America into pitfalls. They characterize asserted proposed neutrality revision with its Irish angle as "one of the dirtiest" plans Britain has yet tried to foist off on America.

Every evening paper includes this statement:

"From the German standpoint, it is reemphasized that the blockade area was clearly defined in the Reich's declaration of a total blockade against England.

Any seafaring state knows that no ship can penetrate this area without exposing itself to military counter-measures of various kinds.

"Evidence of the resultant danger is best shown in the increasing number of sinkings—a large portion of which occurred in Atlantic waters west of Ireland."

Obviously from government sources, the statement in the evening papers continued:

"Germany's warning was issued to merchant shipping of all nations. It is general, and without exceptions. Any merchant ship will be exposed to military action at any time in the blockade area.

"The blockade announcement and warnings are as valid in the future as they have been heretofore. No alterations are intended.

"This all is in accordance with the spirit of Mr. Roosevelt's neutrality law at the time it was issued."

The strongly-worded warning came only six days after the Reich adjoined America against reported plans to seize German ships now in United States harbors.

Owners of more than half the 17,000 acres the army wants near Fort Dix, the farmers drafted two proposals at a mass meeting. One was that military authorities take a scrub pine region southeast of Camp Dix instead of condemning valuable farm acreage. The other was that the government accept trespass rights, compensating owners for property and livestock during maneuvers.

All day yesterday, according to reports from the front, Greek artillery cascaded hammering the Danube lines and caused heavy losses among the Fascist ranks.

In addition, it was reported, Greek artillery units after a successful maneuver brought the Kliksura-Berat road under fire, leaving the Italians fighting along a line between Kliksura and Tepeleini only one road for communications with their rear—the Tepeleini-Berat highway.

Along the coast the advance toward Valona continued with the Italians resisting in an effort to consolidate their mountain positions in front of Valona for a defense of the port. But the rapid advance of the Greek vanguard gave the Fascists no chance to construct their fortifications.

BUT THEY CAN'T DESTROY THOUGHT

PURGE of libraries and household bookshelves in Nazi-occupied Alsace of all but German books is so typical of the Hitler brand of benighted despotism that it could be taken as a matter of course.

World literature, and particularly that of France, is filled with works inspired by a passionate love of freedom. It wouldn't fit in with Nazi ideas for the peoples of conquered countries to be able to read the burning polemics of Rousseau and Voltaire. Among the moderns, Jules Romains' "Verdun," a saga of heroism of the World War, would be anathema to the Nazis.

Purging libraries, burning books, closing universities and silencing all but Hitler-dominated teachers don't spell progress in any language. On the contrary, such wanton ruthlessness blazes a trail back from civilized enlightenment toward primordial ages of brutality and barbarism.

Truth and knowledge, however, have a way of overcoming, eventually, the force of darkness. Even such blackouts of the humanities as are represented by Nazism and Communism can't destroy thought and aspirations.

IMPROVING THE CANAL

It costs money to move dirt, a fact which was known of all men in the railroad grading days. The years have not changed that fact, although railroad buildings is a rare thing these days. Last week the Panama Canal Commission opened bids for excavation for the new locks on that waterway and that job alone, it was found, will cost $8,517,000.

The additional locks will be virtually another canal. They will make possible a channel 140 feet wide, accommodating wider naval vessels such as airplane carriers which today must be kept down under 110 feet, the width of the present locks.

The new locks will be located a mile and a half away from the existing locks. They will be reserved for naval use, thus doing away with the old fear of a freighter being sabotaged and putting the canal out of commission. The latest locks are to be made bomb-proof—how being a military secret.

REFUTING THE CRITICS

There is very little wrong with the education of youth in the public high schools of this country, according to a national survey of public opinion made by the American Council on Education.

The teaching profession has a number of answers for those critics who feel the present high school graduate is not getting enough from the expensive educational system. The one used most often is that compulsory education, gradually lifting the age at which students are required to continue in school, often crowds the classrooms with pupils who are not in the least interested in book learning.

During the last decade, when jobs for youths in the work-a-day world were few and far between, this has been a particularly tough problem. It is possible that as the employment outlook brightens some of the older youngsters will be permitted to go out and get themselves jobs at an earlier age.

Education which is in reality compulsory and in which the pupil does not co-operate produces a minimum of results. A better all-around high school graduate would be the result if teachers had the opportunity to put in a little more effort on fewer students in classrooms. Teachers generally are doing a good job, as they have always done, under prevailing conditions and with the material at hand.

THE ST. LAWRENCE AGAIN

We are to have another battle for authorization of funds by Congress for the digging of the St. Lawrence ship canal. But events have changed so in the past dozen years that there will be a new plan of attack on the part of the waterway proponents.

In the good old horse and buggy days the canal was to be dug in order to give the farmers of the Middle West a cheap outlet to the ocean, so that they could more easily sell their wheat and other produce on the markets of the world in competition with the products of other agricultural nations. But that argument will not be used this time. Maybe the canalites now think the farmer is past saving. Or perhaps they realize that as things now stand up in the international markets nobody abroad is buying much of our produce anyhow. There is, of course, the further argument that if the canal is built and ships are subsidized to go into the Middle West and pick up wheat to be exported, it is not likely that these ships will come back empty. They will be bringing back from abroad something subsidized by cheap rates to sell us in return, perhaps at the expense of the American producer. What the return cargoes will be nobody, of course, knows. Perhaps they will send us, if the war has ended, Polish ham and Danish butter in exchange for American wheat.

At any rate, that cheap shipping rate argument is now all wet so far as the new proponents of the canal are concerned. What they say is that the St. Lawrence canal must be dug as a matter of defense. Just how much defensive value the starting of the canal now would have for our plans is a matter of guessing. Certain it is that the war will be over long before the project is finished. The experts tell us that we need more electric power and that this power could be furnished by the St. Lawrence project. But what we need is not power on order but power on hand that will turn out airplanes and tanks still on order. Time, therefore, is an important element and plants for producing power can be erected, as needed, much more quickly and cheaply than through the St. Lawrence project.

Of course the digging of the canal, when we get around to it will furnish a lot of WPA jobs—providing we are not in too big a hurry for defense. But the real reason the canalites now want the project completed is not for defense nor for cheaper shipping rates, but to get Uncle Sam further into business—once more the utility business.

The tragedy of Mussolini is that he has run out of nations little enough to pick on.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

TEACH CHILD TO FACE RESPONSIBILITY

One of the traits most disastrous to character in the tendency to run away from responsibility. In the last analysis, it was the way to all crime. If each person were immediately to suffer alone the consequences of his own acts, the millennium would be here. The trouble is nobody does; everybody shares with him the consequences of his good or evil acts. Every thing we do has a social significance. What we do alone is shaping our attitudes and habits which are going to function when we come in contact with others.

All human beings have a strong proclivity to fool themselves that they have not made a decision which promises or proves to have a consequence, which others condemn. The child of three or five, when faced with some charge of delinquency, may reply that some one else did it, or that some other child had prompted him. Early he is learning in the manner to find ways of escaping responsibility for his own acts and decisions.

PUNISHMENT NECESSARY

If, of course, we are always to let Nature have her way, the normal penalties often would be too severe. If, for instance, we let the child play in the fire or run wildly into the street, when he pleases, he would undoubtedly get badly hurt.

Having had more experience than the child, we parents step in and improve on Nature. We set up substituting consequences (penalties) and we see to it that the child clearly knows these consequences and always suffers from them when he does the stated things which are dangerous or forbidden.

We also know that if he destroys his own possessions deliberately, or destroys the possessions of others; and if he interferes with the rights of others he will suffer. But again the suffering may be so intense as to injure or destroy him eventually; or, the suffering may come to him too late to be of any avail to change him enough to keep him from suffering later.

In the meanwhile, many others may have been made to suffer from the consequences of his behavior. Anti-social habits in the infant or adult always heap suffering upon others.

START WHEN CHILD IS YOUNG

If, therefore we are wise parents we will do our utmost to teach the child while he is in his tender years that there are certain things he must not have and certain things he must not do. We teach him to avoid these forbidden objects and activities by improving on Nature's cruel ways of punishing him. We devise the punishments. We make them such as to be effective in preventing his wrong conduct while not injuring or destroying him. We prepare him to escape later and more terrible consequences. We also protect his fellows.

When we wisely administer punishments to our children we are taking out a life insurance policy for them against needless suffering; also a similar policy for society. Besides we are training our child in responsibility for bearing the consequences of his own acts.

INVENTORY TIME

I used to hear my father say: "We started taking stock today. We started counting all the things. The wheels and copper gears and springs; The tools, the metals crude, the pails, The hammers and the pounds of nails.

The finished stock, the stuff in work The pens and pencils of the clerk." So that full knowledge could be had About the business good and bad.

It seemed a tedious task back then. Faced once a year by business men, But now I wonder would not we As individuals wiser be Were we to check our stocks in trade And count our gains and losses made;

To run our every action through As men in shops and factories do? Why merely count the stocks on shelves And never think to check ourselves?

Have we enough of every trait Which really makes a lifetime great?

VERY SENSITIVE

Two girls were talking. "I never could get much interested in Jack," said one. "He seems to have such a negative personality."

"Yes, but you'd be surprised how it can be developed in a dark room," said the other girl.

A law is proposed in Washington to grant pensions to ex-congressmen. Some of them are about through everywhere when their terms are up.

A little couple was having their first spat when she said: "I'm sorry I married you." "You ought to be," he replied. "You cheated some other girl out of a mighty fine husband."

"Today I'm doing what Jones told me to do," was the answer: it is Simpson's day tomorrow, and the next is Brown's. If I'm not better by Tuesday, and I'm still alive I shall try your remedy. Just write down on this card, will you?"

Little Bo-Peep knew her sheep and so had faith in the ultimate. It is like us, in our selfish and impatient pulling and hauling, to forget that Nature does things about right, even to putting a lamb's tail where it belongs.

Resting upon the table the elbow of the arm being used for handling food. Holding the spoon or fork otherwise than between the thumb and index finger. Buttering and biting from whole slices of bread, instead of breaking them apart. Spreading food upon forks held bottom-side up. Keeping the mouth open or smacking the lips while chewing. Holding stemmed glasses by the bowl instead of by the stem only. Drinking with the head so far back that the glass is raised further than horizontal.

Agnes Ayres Is Called By Death, Almost Penniless

Played Opposite Late Rudolph Valentino In "The Sheik"
Of Silent Film Days

(International News Service)
HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 27—Another anti-climatic Hollywood story—riches, fame, then heartbreak and financial distress—was on the books today.

Agnes Ayres, once the toast of the film world, leading woman to the late Rudolph Valentino in "The Sheik" died Wednesday, virtually forgotten by all except a few friends of former days. She was 42 years of age.

She had been ill for weeks, but the cause of death was cerebral hemorrhage, it was reported.

Motion picture relief fund officials were endeavoring to find relatives, said to be in the east, so arrangements could be completed for her funeral. Miss Ayres was born in Carbondale, Ill. She is survived by a daughter, Maria, 15, said to be in Mexico City with her father, S. Manuel Reachi, former Mexican consul attaché in Los Angeles. Miss Ayres was divorced from him in 1927, but Reachi won custody of the child. They were married in 1924 when Miss Ayres retired from film work.

She was wealthy then, but in 1929 she lost her fortune in the stock market crash. She returned to the films in 1937 to make a new bid for fame. But "bit holes" were the best producers would offer her and she tried the stage, but that too turned out to be a poor venture.

Although she had played many leading roles in her film career, her greatest fame came when she played opposite Rudolph Valentino in "The Sheik."

Families Of Members Will Be Guests At Christmastide Party Saturday Evening

Arrangements have been completed for a Christmastide party which will be given in the post rooms of Neshannock Post No. 315. Veterans for Foreign Wars, on East Washington street Saturday evening when the families of the members will be guests.

The Christmas tree which was erected for Christmas in the post rooms will be kept up until after the party, along with the other Christmas decorations and a good program of entertainment will be provided.

An invitation has been issued to those eligible to affiliate with the post and their families, in addition to the members of the committee.

Handling of the rural mail routes out of the Mahonington Post Office was made easier during the holiday season by the cooperation of the rural patrons, Edwin McBride, superintendent stated today.

In response to an appeal from the post office, many of the rural residents purchased supplies of stamps from the post office, prior to the rush season and affixed them to their cards and letters. This act avoided the usual confusion caused when the patrons buy stamps from the rural carriers.

McBride states that everything is now cleared up at the office but he has noticed a large number of belated Christmas cards in the incoming mail.

Rural Patrons Buy Stamps At Office

Handling of the rural mail routes out of the Mahonington Post Office was made easier during the holiday season by the cooperation of the rural patrons, Edwin McBride, superintendent.

In response to an appeal from the post office, many of the rural residents purchased supplies of stamps from the post office, prior to the rush season and affixed them to their cards and letters. This act avoided the usual confusion caused when the patrons buy stamps from the rural carriers.

McBride states that everything is now cleared up at the office but he has noticed a large number of belated Christmas cards in the incoming mail.

Australian Fliers In Air Battle With Italian Air Squad

Battle Takes Place Over Bardia Front—Artillery Duel Also Rages

By W. P. SAPHERE

International News Service Staff Correspondent

CAIRO, Dec. 27.—Australian units of the British empire air force have repulsed an Italian attempt to gain mastery of the air over the Bardia battlefield, it was announced here today.

Two Italian CR-42 type planes were shot down and four other Italian machines severely damaged in the air battle over Bardia.

The aerial battle took place while an artillery duel raged on the ground and tank units of Britain's "iron horse" cavalry harassed the Italian forces trapped at Bardia.

An official communiqué announced the British aerial victory said:

"Aircraft of the Royal Australian Air Force shot down two CR-42 machines in the western desert yesterday. Four other enemy aircraft were severely damaged."

"A low level attack also was made on the enemy landing ground at Gazala on December 24. All the bombs fell in the target area."

"While no bombing operations were carried out Christmas Day, numerous reconnaissance fighter patrols were active."

"During a reconnaissance flight over Naples, our aircraft shot down an Italian SS-79 plane."

Mrs. Williams

Still Leads As Best Dressed

International News Service

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—Mrs. Harrison Williams, wife of the utilities executive, still is America's best dressed woman.

She topped the list today of America's best dressed women of 1940 chosen in a poll by 50 fashion designers and writers. Before the war, the poll was taken in Paris which is now too pre-occupied with more serious problems.

The poll was notable for the absence of the Duchess of Windsor who usually headed the Paris list. Also there were no Hollywood names.

The list follows:

Mrs. Harrison Williams, Mrs. Ronald Balcom, Mrs. Thomas Shelin, Mrs. Byron Foy, Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow, Mrs. William Paley, Mrs. Howard Linn, Gladys Swarthout, Ina Claire, Mrs. Gilbert Miller, Mrs. Lawrence Tibbett, Lynn Fontanne, Mrs. S. Kent Legare, Mrs. Harold Talbot, Mrs. W. Rhinelander Stewart.

The 1940 list was notable for the preponderance of women with severely simple tastes in clothes.

HUGE VALUE TO CROPS IN STATE

Field And Fruit Crops Of 1940 In Pennsylvania Valued At $140,860,000

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, Dec. 27.—Pennsylvania's field and fruit crops in 1940 today was valued at $140,860,000 by the federal-state crop reporting service.

This is one per cent increase over the 1939 figure of $139,106,000.

Although the production of corn, wheat and rye declined seven per cent from last year, the service said, the decrease was more than offset by a larger production of all other field crops, particularly oats and hay.

The rapid advance of barley and soybeans was again evidenced this year when an estimated 79,000 acres of soybeans was reported planted in 1940 of which 19 per cent was harvested for beans.

Reporting on feed supplies for the coming season, the service disclosed that hay production is up 22 per cent but corn silage, despite the larger acreage cut this year, is somewhat below the 1939 figure.

However, no widespread feed shortages are in prospect, although the grain corn supply will be inadequate in some sections.

The service disclosed that corn production, while below the good crops of the previous three years, is better than average and stocks available for feeding are expected to be about normal. Some soft corn was reported this year in every section of Pennsylvania.

The potato crop is larger than in the past two years but blight, frosts and a relatively new disease in Pennsylvania, bacterial ring rot, have injured the crop. Southeastern sections of the state produced the best yield.

Reporting on the fruit crop, the service stated that Pennsylvania ranked third in peach production and sixth in pears. Fruit was generally of good quality and brought better prices than in 1939, it was said.

Three Embassy Members Enroute Home From Paris

(International News Service) LISBON, Dec. 27.—Mrs. Elizabeth Deegan, Cecil Cross and Leigh Hunt, staff members of the American embassy in Paris whose recall was demanded recently by the German government, were in London today en route to the United States.

Mrs. Deegan had been held in a German prison from Dec. 5 to 14 on charges of aiding a British officer to escape. Cross and Hunt were accused of similar violations.

While deferring to German demands that the trio be recalled, the state department in Washington announced recently that investigation showed they were not guilty of the German charges.

Challenges President To Take Entire Nation Into His Confidence

(International News Service)

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Dec. 27.—A challenge to take the nation fully into his confidence when he makes his "fireside chat" Sunday night was left with President Roosevelt today by Verne Marshall, chairman of the "no foreign war committee".

Such action by the president, wrote Marshall in a Christmas editorial in the Cedar Rapids Gazette, of which he is editor, could bring a speedy end to the European war.

Marshall served notice he would demand of the radio chains equal time to answer any attacks on the committee that the president may use.

The militant Iowa editor charged that peoples down through the centuries have been deceived by the makers of war and threatened to make public the report prepared by "an honored Englishman" to support this charge if attacks on his committee continue.

Unwritten Commitments

Marshall further charged that "but for our unwritten commitments prior to the resumption of war in Europe more than one year ago, there might have been no resumption."

Christmas mail at the Gazette office brought the committee more than $7,000 in contributions ranging from a dime to a $4,000 check, he reported.

"Sunday evening," Marshall said in his editorial, "in a fireside chat President Roosevelt is going to tell the country how and what he feels about aid to Britain."

"If he takes us wholly into his confidence, we will know how best and most quickly to act in behalf of humanity everywhere. In short, we will know exactly how to end this war. And within weeks, if not days."

Marshall also announced that

Kills Daughter, Attacks His Son, Then Ends Life

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 27.—Probably in a temporary fit of insanity, Frank Shuster, 41, today killed his daughter, 17, with an ax, attacked his son, 19, with a hatchet and then killed himself with a shotgun blast in the basement of his home at Lake Milton, 18 miles west of here authorities said tonight.

The bodies of the father and daughter and the unconscious youth were found at 6 last night by Mrs. Gertrude Shuster, the wife and mother, on her return from a holiday visit with relatives in Pennsylvania.

The daughter, Virginia, was slain in her bed room. In another bed room, the son, Robert was found near death. The hatchet was found near him, leading investigators to believe that the father had left him.

The youth was brought to South Side Hospital here.

Mrs. Shuster, who arrived home to find the lights on in the house, the radio going and the doors locked, could advance no motive for the deaths. She said their married life had been happy.

Neighbors told Sheriff Ralph E. Elser that Shuster had had little work this winter, that he had been ill and had lost 30 pounds in weight, and that he had appeared worried about his work and health.

"Our committee knows that once the belligerents of this world understand that Americans are for America first, second, third, last and always, and that they are willing and ready to fight anywhere for principles, the symbols of which are cavalry and a crown of thorns there will be lasting peace. But for our unwritten commitments prior to the resumption of war in Europe, more than a year ago, there might have been no resumption."

There are numerous individuals who can swear to the solemn truth of that solemn charge. To be sure, some of them are in prison, particularly in France and Poland, but should the day come when the peoples of the world demanded to see those men, and get the truth from them, their demand would be met with unprecedented alacrity.

Old Age Pension Boost Is Likely To Be Advocated

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
 International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—President Roosevelt has indicated to congressional leaders that old age pensions should be increased, thus paving the way for a controversy between pension groups and the "rich" and "poor" states, authoritative sources disclosed today.

The president, who declared during the presidential campaign that old age pensions are a national problem, was represented by advisers as being keenly interested in boosting pensions now being paid by most of the states under the federal-state program.

While congressional leaders have not yet determined whether a full-scale revision of the social security program will be undertaken, the administration is said to be insisting that the problem be considered.

Under the social security act, two systems of pensions are established. Employers and workers under the old-age annuity plan are paying taxes to provide annuities after workers reach 65. Relatively little is now paid out under this program.

In addition, the federal government matches state payments up to $20 a month. Payments under this old-age assistance program now reached more than $600,000,000 annually, according to social security board records. Pensions are being paid to 2,037,427 persons.

The highest average monthly pension, $37.90 is paid in California. The Colorado average pension is $30.65. Massachusetts $28.60 and New York $24.31, the board reports.

In many states, however, the pension is but a few dollars a month. Lowest average monthly pensions are $7.14 in Arkansas, $8 in South Carolina and $8.13 in Georgia.

It is the latter class of pensions that Mr. Roosevelt has advised his congressional leaders he wants to boost.

Production Of Armaments Is Real Objective

Girdler Says All Other Considerations Must Be Subordinated Now

International News Service
 CLEVELAND, Dec. 27.—T. M. Girdler, board chairman of Republic Steel Corporation, today said that production of armaments is the "real objective" of the national defense program and that all other considerations must be subordinated to such production.

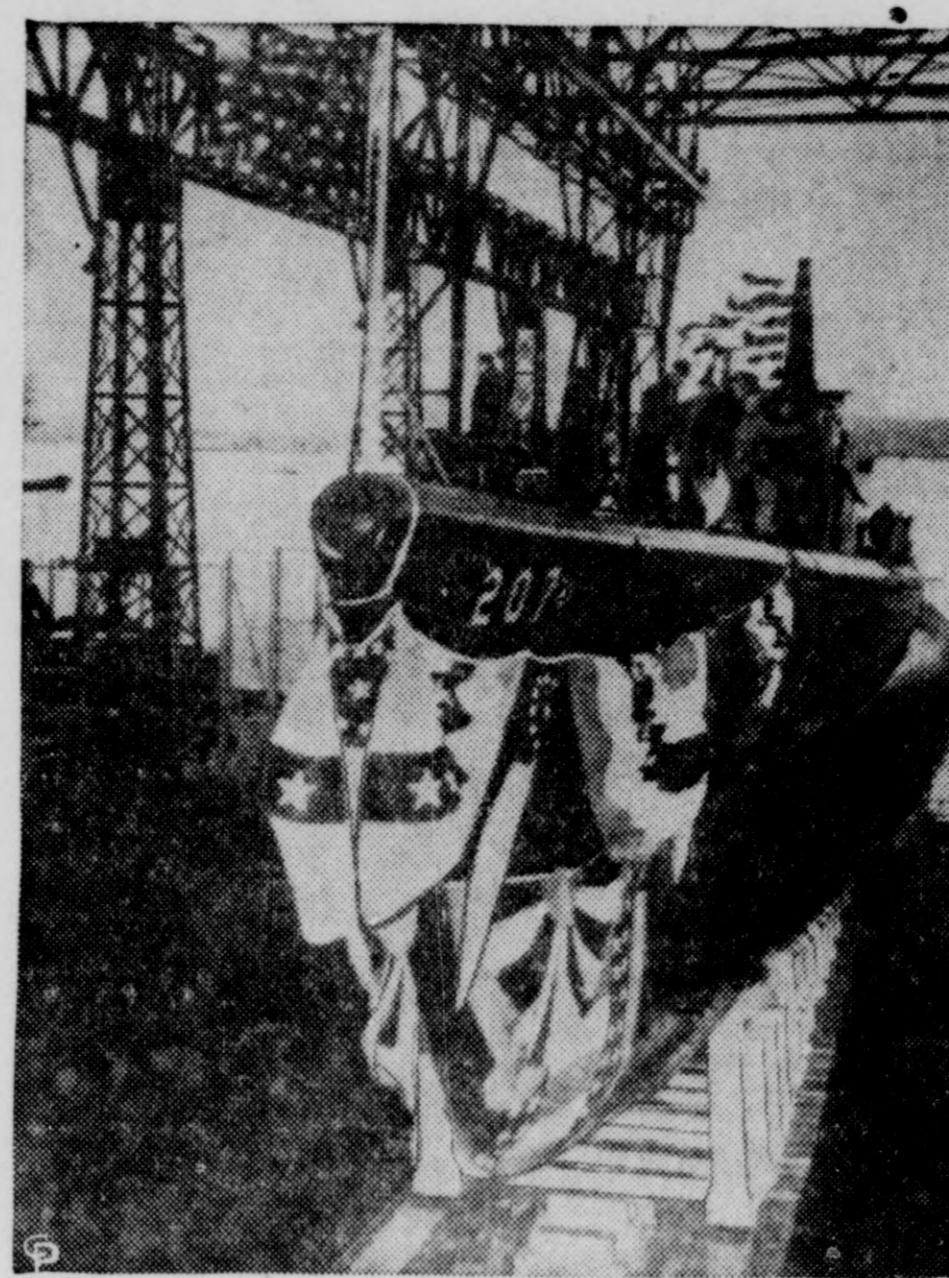

Among those considerations Girdler listed "further socialization of industry and unionization of all industrial employees." The steel master's observations were set forth in a letter signed by himself and by R. J. Wyser, president of Republic Steel.

After calling on management and labor to work together in complete cooperation with the government in the defense program, Girdler said: "There has appeared to be some confusion as to the real purpose of the defense program. Some regard it as a grandiose pump-priming scheme—the forerunner of a gigantic boom and the cure-all for unemployment; others regard it as the means of further socialization of industry and unionization of all industrial employees; still others look upon it as a means of multiplying the luxuries available to every home."

"But the real objective of the defense program is none of these. It has only one purpose, and that is the production of armaments. To that purpose every other consideration must be secondary."

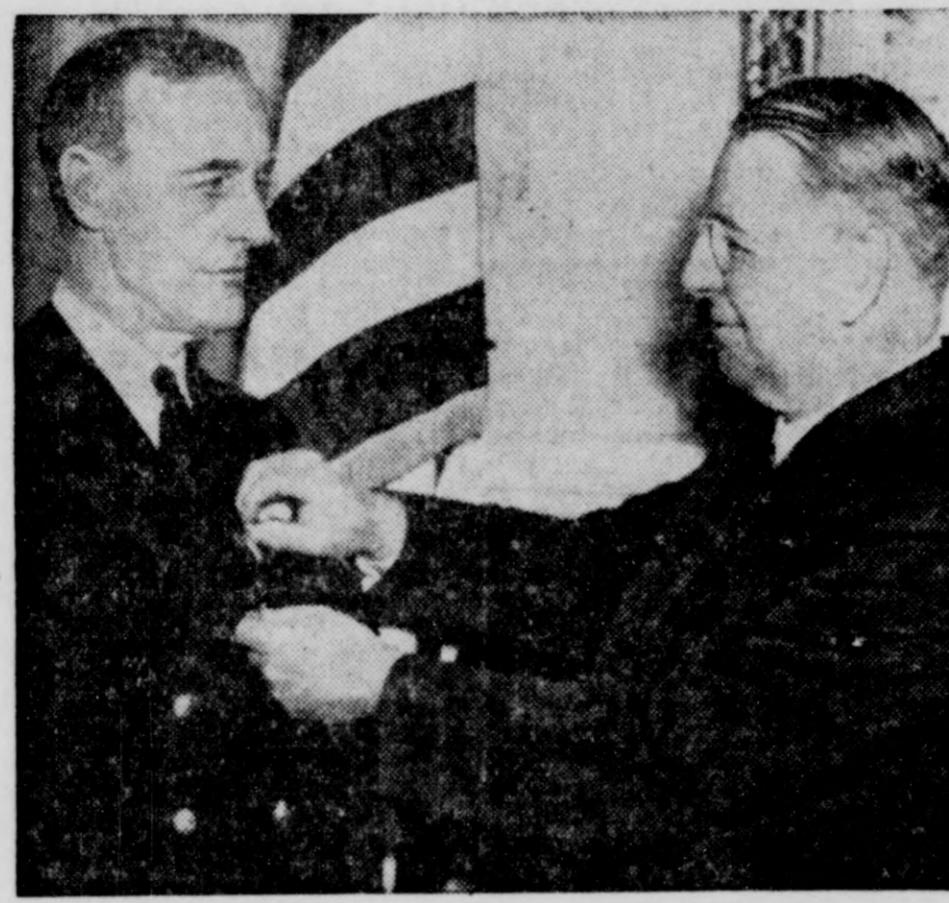

The letter went to approximately 52,000 corporation shareholders who received a common stock dividend of 40 cents a share which was declared recently.

The submarine Grampus, latest addition to the U. S. fleet, is shown being launched at New London, Conn. The submarine, in the 1,475-ton class, was christened by Mrs. Clark Woodward, wife of Rear Admiral Clark Woodward, commandant of the Third Naval district.

Officials Silent On Nazi Warning

Washington, Dec. 27.—U. S. officials today declined to comment on warnings from the German press that should the United States hit the ban on American vessels sailing to Irish ports it would constitute an act of war.

Secretary of State Hull at his press conference asserted in clipped tones that he couldn't comment on the matter. Other officials likewise were silent as they were last week when an official German spokesman warned that U. S. seizure of German and Italian ships in U. S. ports would amount to a warlike act if the requisitioned vessels were turned over to the British.

But the real objective of the defense program is none of these. It has only one purpose, and that is the production of armaments. To that purpose every other consideration must be secondary."

The letter went to approximately 52,000 corporation shareholders who received a common stock dividend of 40 cents a share which was declared recently.

Says Committee For Intervention

William Allen White Committee Is Assailed By Verne Marshall

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 27—The William Allen White committee has been taken over "lock, stock, and barrel" by the element in its membership favoring active intervention by the United States in the European war, it was charged today by Verne Marshall, head of the opposition "no foreign war committee."

Many of the most prominent signers of the telegram to President Roosevelt urging him to "make it the settled policy of this country to do everything that may be necessary to insure defeat of the axis powers" were members of White's group, known as the "committee to defend America by aiding the allies" Marshall asserted in a statement released at his headquarters here.

Marshall again asserted it was absurd to think the European aggressors planned an attack against the United States and claimed his country would face certain destruction because of its unpreparedness if it rushed into war now.

Of his charge that the White committee had been taken over by pro-war elements, Marshall said:

"No other interpretation is possible from their telegram to the White House. "We ask you to tell us what we believe to be the truth," the telegram read. This is a typical device in organized propaganda, the principle of the lawyer asking the defendant before the jury: "Have you stopped beating your wife?"

OVERWEIGHT

The trouble about most advice about avoidance of obesity, that life-sapping ailment of many adults, is that it is so hard to follow. Most safe reducing regimens require a good deal of time and persistence for results.

A man or woman, fortyish and overweight, will decide to reduce. Exercise is going to help some, but diet is going to take off the extra poundage. A diet scheme is adopted, and the reductee resolutely sticks to it for a few days or a week, and rushes to the scales. The result probably is discouraging. She hasn't lost nearly as much as all the dieting and willpower has led her to expect. To continue the regimen she has not only to overcome this discouragement, but a gnawing hunger and perhaps the skeptical or chiding attitude of friends. It's no wonder that she usually throws over the program, goes back to substantial meals and decides that her overweight is congenital.

If the 20 or 25 pounds of surplus poundage has been 10 or 15 years in accumulating, it isn't reasonable to expect to get rid of it in a few weeks. If you do, you are most certainly risking your health.

No reducing diet should be so drastic as to take off more than a few pounds in a month. When you decide to reduce, prepare to spend from six months to a year doing it if necessary. Get medical help in figuring out a diet that will take weight off you very slowly and steadily. In that way you will avoid injuring your system, you won't be starving yourself, you won't let your system go without vitamins that resist disease and deterioration of the body. If you work at this for six months or longer, you will have formed excellent dietary habits that will stand you in good stead the rest of your life.

Don't be discouraged because weight doesn't fall right off from the start. Sometimes when you begin to diet, fat is burned up, but it is replaced by water for a time, and the result is that your weight remains almost the same. However, in a few weeks, the water will begin to go and then you will see the results of your dieting.

It is pretty useless to try sweating to get rid of the excess water in your system too. If you do this, you weaken the body, and you have to eat large amounts of food to keep up your strength. This extra food, or at least much of it, will go on your body as fat so that instead of assisting your weight-reducing schedule you have delayed it.

Business Booming As Year-End Arrives Is Babson's Report

By ROGER W. BABSON
Copyright—1940—Publishers Financial Bureau, Inc.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 27.—I address my readers this week from the Nation's Capital, where I am spending a few days. With Congress still enjoying its Christmas holiday, the legislative branch of our government is not functioning. However, President Roosevelt is on the job as are the heads of most of the governmental departments and commissions. In spite of an absent congress, the city is very much alive. It throbs with defense talk and I have never heard so many rumors in all my life!

Most of this talk is related to war credits, priorities, aid to Britain, industry, strikes, taxes, the farm program, peace plans, and reconstruction. I sense in Washington a new and greatly accelerated tempo. Much remains of the post-Christmas holiday spirit. Celebration plans for the New Year are also already in the air. But the people who live and work in this city are very much alive to our present situation. More so than the people of most other cities throughout the country, they realize what we find ourselves up against in this closing week of the year.

Hail And Farewell

I venture to say that two days ago the majority of our people enjoyed the best and most prosperous Christmas they have had in years. We have all had many uncertainties to face during 1940. Not the least of these was the election. I hope that for the next four years it turns out for the best. Certainly, during his current term, the President will follow a more conservative course than he did during his first two terms. Business is very much better than a year ago in both the United States and Canada. Year-end dividend checks are larger and more widespread; employment totals are expanding; pay rolls are mounting; and pay envelopes are fatter.

Last December, I said there would be a gain of 10-15% in business over the first half of 1939. In July of this year, I said that the second half of the year should show a 6% gain over the first half of 1940 and last half of 1939, with maybe the best final half year in the history of our country for a 1940 wind-up. This put me on the spot, but the statements were amply justified. The record shows that in the first six months business averaged 11.6% above the first half of 1939. In the second half of 1940 business is averaging 5% above the first half of the year and is 5.4% ahead of the last half of 1939. Business is currently 0.4% above the final half of 1929, which makes it the best final half year in history!

What Concerns Washington?

If dispatches can be counted upon, Washington is cracking up. In spite of this favorable situation in the Near East for the British, it has released little, if any, optimistic comment here. Perhaps recent pessimistic utterances of Mr. Knudsen and the president have nullified any upward spurt in the stock market which might normally be expected as encouraging news comes in. If so, this is a healthy condition. We want no runaway markets whether in stocks, raw materials or commodities. Rather, we must have attention to the work in hand, to the vitally-important defense program in all its various phases.

Madam Perkins may for a time convince the administration that a 40-hour week and increased industrial production can walk hand-in-hand. I doubt it. Certainly, harmony is necessary between employees and employers if our defense program is not to be interrupted. It is obvious, too, that if a 40-hour week puts more people to work, whole communities benefit by less unemployed. Factory workers are real spenders. But there is no point in penalizing industry—in creating production bottlenecks through a wrong Federal law. When the Wage and Hour Bill was signed by the president on June 25, 1938, and went into effect on October 24, 1938, its sponsors had no idea the present national emergency would exist. Washington leaders are vitally concerned with the retardation it may now be responsible for in our industrial expansion.

Washington Carries Load

As the originating and focal point of the preparedness program, Washington carries a heavy burden. The State Department, under able Secretary Hull, although necessarily but little publicized, bears the brunt of it. Added to the other formal governmental departments are various commissions and agencies. All are attempting to bring order out of the initial mismanagement and chaos arising from the "about face" which our nation, in competition with totalitarian powers, has been obliged to take. Many of our governmental heads and employees, in spite of the Wage and Hour Law, are putting in plenty of overtime. Volunteers like Knudsen, Stettinius, and their associates are making real personal sacrifices. Knowing these people, I realize that our affairs and our future are in good hands.

Nineteen forty will pass us by with the picture within a few days. We can be thankful for a good year. Let us now take account of stock, settle down, and get ready for the new baby which 1941 will bring. I am glad to be alive in these interesting and stirring days. My desire is to live through the present emergency until the world is again at peace. My only beef is that I am not forty years younger. I am today making no forecasts. On the last day of the year, I will give in detail, in my Annual Outlook, my ideas as to what is ahead for 1941. Meanwhile, my suggestion is that we all take courage—that we discount disheartening rumors, and remain, each of us, a bull on the U. S. A. and Canada!

May Make Butler British Minister

(International News Service)

LONDON, Dec. 27.—Announcement will soon be made of the British government's decision to appoint a minister to Washington to assist Lord Halifax, newly appointed ambassador to the American capital, the London Daily Telegraph said today.

Although Sir Gerald Campbell, British high commissioner to Canada, has been mentioned for the post of minister, the paper said, it is more probable that Neville Butler, counsellor of the embassy at Washington, will be promoted to the rank of minister.

Plan To Transport Complete Regiments Of Troops By Planes

By HAROLD SLATER

International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—Transportation by air of complete regiments of combat troops, including heavy machine gun and anti-tank units, is being accomplished by the United States army in tests to perfect the speed and attack of the nation's fighting forces, the war department revealed today.

The experiments, now being conducted at Fort Sam Houston, Tex., are designed to permit the air battalions to hold advance posts from 24 to 36 hours, until the main ground forces of the army can be brought up. The air battalions would be landed from the skies at points seized by parachute troops.

Newest Air Fighters

The army's newest air fighting plane is being composed in units of battalions. A battalion is made up of 31 officers and 838 enlisted men.

With equipment, including machine guns, anti-tank guns and ammunition, each unit weighs about 200,000 pounds, the war department said.

The experiments reveal that it will take about 60 big transport planes to move a battalion. Greatest difficulty confronting the army in the present tests is in moving the 37 mm anti-tank weapons by air.

There are 12 anti-tank weapons in a battalion and each weighs 950 pounds. The experiments show that it takes about 13 transports to move this section of the planned air battalion.

Army C-39 cargo planes, similar to some of the commercial planes, are being used in the Texas tests.

Stripped of all excess weight, each transport is able to carry about 3,500 pounds on a long haul.

In the event of actual war, it was said, the C-39's could be used to transport the anti-tank units, while regular transports could move machine gun troops and regular infantry.

Under the strategy being worked out by the army experts, parachute troops would first be sent to seize a landing field. Then the battalions of infantry would be moved in by air.

Each of the first four planes of the air battalions carries one 30 calibre machine gun section. The fifth and sixth planes carry one 50 calibre machine gun section each.

The remaining equipment planes carry 81 mm mortars and the personnel to man the machine guns, and anti-tank guns. One transport carries the battalion headquarters personnel.

The war department said that the experiments are now being carried out for engineer and signal corps units.

Experiments with artillery regiments will then be worked out and it is expected that these will provide all the essential elements for air transport operations, so far contemplated by the army.

The parachute corps, distinct from the infantry battalions, has been undergoing air training for some months.

The air battalions, it is said, are primarily designed to take quick advantage of the positions seized by the parachutists.

Stanford Team In Pasadena For Training Windup

Coach Shaughnessy Worried By Injury To Big Substitute Fullback

(International News Service) PASADENA, Dec. 27.—The Stanford Indians and their "model T" formation were ready for action today in Brookside Park, their hearts, minds and eyes centered upon the Rose Bowl and their date there, come next Wednesday with the Cornhuskers of Nebraska.

They roared into town yesterday, and Coach Clark Shaughnessy said that a hard drill was on the ticket for today.

As the Indians were preparing to don their practice togs, word came from Phoenix, Ariz., that Nebraska Coach Bill Jones put his outfit through one of the hardest practice sessions it has had since camp was established there several days ago. In fact, the Huskers looked so good that their stock was boosted several points by close observers.

Depends On Standee

Shaughnessy, in Pasadena, declared he was "upset" by Millie Vucinich's "knee misery," and said that if the substitute back's ailing knee didn't respond in time, Norman Standee, the big Indian fullback, might have to play a 60-minute game against Nebraska.

Standee's ankle was injured late in the regular season, and while it has not been serious, it has kept him out of quite a bit of football. Shaughnessy has seen to it that Standee has taken good care of the ankle up until now, and he still is not sure just how well it will hold up in the forthcoming game.

The team took a run on the practice field late yesterday for the benefit of cameramen, but it was largely a passing drill, with admiral Frankie Albert throwing them smoothly and accurately.

LEAN YEAR FOR CHAMPION LOUIS

Champion Joe Louis has had a lean year, so far as active combat is concerned.

The mighty king of the heavyweight division defended his laurels four times, twice defeating Auturo Godoy, once by a kaya and the other time by decision. His other two victories were gained at the expense of Johnny Paycheck and Al McCoy, both by knockouts.

FAILS TO "SEE" CONN AS GOOD FOE FOR LOUIS

(International News Service) MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 27.—Billy Conn, Pittsburgh's gift to the light heavyweight ranks, may have convinced himself, his manager, and even some fans of his ability to knock Joe Louis loose from the heavyweight throne—but he hasn't convinced the National Boxing Association.

This state of affairs exists following the N.B.A.'s summing up of the heavyweight situation. Fred J. Saddy, chairman of the N.B.A. championship committee, under the heading of "logical contenders" for the Brown Bomber's championship, stated:

"None available."

In justice to Conn, however, he probably won't be listed officially as a heavyweight contender until he gives up his light-heavyweight title, as he is expected to do shortly to fight Louis. Meantime, Saddy listen seven "logical contenders" for Billy's crown and they were, in order:

Meilo Bettina, New York; Anton Christofidis, Greece; Len Harvey, England; Gus Lesnevich, New Jersey; Jimmy Webb, Missouri, and Turkey Thompson and Tommy Tucker, both of California.

Outstanding Performers

Among the heavyweights, where Saddy found no "logical contenders" for the title, he did list three "outstanding boxers," and these were Max Baer, Red Burman, and Arthur Godoy. "Honorable mention" was given the following heavies: Buddy Baer, Buddy Walker, Abe Simmons, Lou Nova, Otis Thomas, Lem Franklin, Pat Comiskey, and Roscoe Toles.

In the other divisions, the logical contenders were rated as follows:

Middleweight—Ken Overlin, Billy Soose, Steve Bellrose, and Al Hostak.

Welterweight—Henry Armstrong, Izzy Janazzo, Charles Burley, Mike Kaplan, and Jimmy Leto.

Lightweight—Lee Jenkins and Eric Bonfield.

Featherweight—Chalky Wright, Billy Spary, Harry Jaffra, Joe Marignelli and Jimmy Perrin.

Bantamweight—Tommy Forte, Tony Olivera, Kni Kong Young, and Rush Daniels.

Flyweight—Jackie Patterson, Little Pancho, Enrico Urbanati, Manuel Ortiz and Jackie Jurich.

The N.B.A. champions, in addition to Louis and Conn, are Tony Zale, middleweight; Fritzie Zivic, welterweight; Sammy Angott, lightweight; Pete Salica, featherweight; Lou Salica, bantamweight, and Little Dado, flyweight.

Junior Church League Games

Four Junior Church basketball league games will be played at the "Y" Saturday.

The first game will start at 4 o'clock with the Third U. P. battling the First Christians. At 6:15 o'clock the First Methodists and First Presbyterians tangle, while the other two games are as follows—First U. P. vs. St. Marys, and Wesley vs. Epworth.

SHORT SPORTS

As a two year old, Maedic won five successive stakes in as many starts at Saratoga. That was in 1936. He raced four seasons, winning 11 races and $54,625. He entered the stud in 1939, and his first crop of foals will be yearlings for the new glass.

Ciney pitchers were elated when the Reds purchased Jimmy Gleeson from the Cubs. Last season, Gleeson pounded out five timely homers against the Reds' staff....Frankie Frisch, the Pirates' big chief, has been quoted as saying he doesn't believe Bill Lee, a 20-game winner in 1934, 22 in '38 and 19 in '39, will cop more than four games next season, according to The Sporting News. Bill expects to win 16 more than Frisch's quota.

JOHNNY DEAN will probably hang up the gauntlets for good.

The ex-marine who recently became a pappy, says he can't find enough time to train. The local middleweight is on the police staff of a local plant.

"There isn't any sense jumping into the ring if you are not in shape. That is, unless you want to get your ears knocked off," Dean declared.

PAUL "DIZZY" TROUT, Detroit pitcher, will go down as the first major leaguer to wear the new contact glasses on a baseball field.

The glasses, which are fitted to the eyeball, proved successful on the football field. In future seasons, most of the big leaguers who wear spectacles will probably check them in for the new glasses.

Stock Market Firmer Today

Moderately Active Dealings Are Reported During Morning

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—The stock market was firmer today in moderately active dealings.

Though all the averages were slightly higher, there was a good deal of irregularity throughout the list with a number of leaders down on the day.

Most steels were higher but gains were small. Bethlehem was steady at the start and then eased.

Chrysler, up slightly in the early dealings, gave way later. General Motors was off from the start.

Westinghouse was up almost a point at the opening but lost this later.

There was moderate activity in some of the coppers, with the group displaying a firm undertone. Mail order shares were slightly higher.

N. Y. Central was under pressure but other rails were unchanged to higher. Most of the utilities improved also.

There was considerable activity in some of the oils. Johns-Manville gained more than a point, and DuPont was off almost a point. These were among the few price changes of importance.

Dies Committee To Get Bund List

Complete, Official Roster Of Membership Of Bund To Be Secured

BUND OFFICIALS MAKE PROMISE

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—The Dies committee will soon obtain a complete, official roster of the membership of the German-American Bund as a result of persistent demands made over a period of two years. Rep. Dies (D) Tex., chairman of the committee, disclosed today.

While the committee, through a series of raids conducted in many cities, believes that it has a virtually complete list of members, officials of the Bund have promised to give the committee its full list.

The list, believed by Dies committee members to total at least 20,000, also will be made available to the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the army and navy intelligence divisions.

William V. Keegan, New York, general counsel of the bund, wrote Dies that the roster will be given only for the purpose of investigation by duly authorized investigators of your committee and other duly constituted law enforcement agencies."

To Check List

The committee is expected to check the list with records obtained in its raids in Chicago, New York and other cities. It is expected that the committee will make the list available to federal officials to check against workers in defense industries and soldiers and sailors.

Dies has asserted that evidence before the committee indicates that many bundsmen are employed in defense industries. It has been charged that many soldiers and sailors also have been enrolled in the bund.

Keegan, in deciding to give the committee the list, denied that the organization is engaged in un-American activities. He is under subpoena to appear before the committee.

Committee members revealed that an investigation is planned of a proposed "peace march" on Washington soon after congress convenes in January. The proposed march is under direction of the American peace mobilization. Frederick Meyers, a leading spirit in the movement, has been charged before the committee with Communist affiliations.

HARRISBURG, Dec. 27.—Two prominent educators announced their candidacy for president of the Pennsylvania State Education Association at the opening session of a three-day convention at Harrisburg.

Dr. Charles E. Sohl, principal of the Glendale-Weldon Junior High School, Abington Township; and Dr. Levi P. Gilbert, superintendent of Altoona schools, announced they would seek election at today's session.

Approximately 600 delegates representing more than 60,000 school teachers, principals and supervisors will cast votes. Results of the balloting will be announced at the final session Saturday morning. Officials estimated that 5,000 educators will attend the conference.

Dr. Sohl is chairman of the association's committee on rules and by-laws and a member of three national education associations. He holds the endorsement of the southeastern convention districts which includes Bucks, Chester, Delaware, Philadelphia and Montgomery counties.

Dr. Gilbert, active in western Pennsylvania education circles, formerly was superintendent of schools at Lansdowne.

Meanwhile, delegates indicated they were ready to oppose any amendments which might be introduced in the 1941 legislature tending to weaken the teachers' tenure act.

(International News Service)
STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Dec. 27.—The Pennsylvania State College draws the biggest percentage of its students from homes in which the father is a foreman, manager or superintendent, a merchant, or a farmer. Registrar William S. Hoffman reports.

Indicating that college students represent a complete cross-section of family occupations and income levels, the report listed these other leading occupations among the parents in their order of frequency:

Commercial travelers and salesmen, 378; professors and teachers, 245; engineers, 229; railroad employees, 221; laborers, 203; miners, 184; contractors, 127; clerks, 118; insurance agents, 108; machinists, 101; accountants and bookkeepers, 98; doctors and physicians, 93; electrical engineers, 91; manufacturers, 87; real estate agents, 67; carpenters, 64; bank employees, 62; dairymen, 61; civil engineers, 61; lawyers, 58; mechanics, 56; and postal clerks and postmasters, 51.

Life is a "cold" proposition.

There are 300,000,000 common colds in the United States each year.

A cold frequently leads to sinus trouble.

Chronic sinusitis causes more ill health than any other disease.

Sinusitis are cavities in the bones forming the head and face.

Sinusitis connect with the inside of the nose.

Normally, a "cold" is self-limited and disappears in a few days.

With an impaired nose, the "cold" may settle in a sinus.

Sinusitis sometimes leads to dangerous complications.

The infection may thus spread to brain or blood stream.

To prevent colds build up general physical resistance.

Keep away from people with "colds" or with acute sinusitis.
